County Doctors Ready for 'Polio Day' Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be "polio day" throughout Westmoreland County.

From 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. county doctors are expected to cancel other commitments in order to administer anti-polio vaccine to all-comers. Every man, woman and child is urged to be vaccinated.

According to the Westmoreland County Medical Society, "Every child in the county -- regardless of his family's financial circumstances — will be vaccinated without cost. These free vaccinations are being made possible through free vaccine provided by the state."

This means that school children up to the age of 20 will be vaccinated without charge.

County doctors will charge $3 per shot for adults able to pay. There will be no charge for adults unable to pay the fee, according to the Society.

A survey by The Daily Independent today revealed that all Westmoreland County district doctors will participate in tomorrow's program.

All persons to be immunized are requested to go to their family physician's office. Those who have no regular family physician can be inoculated at any doctor's office in the county, the survey showed.

According to the Society, all physicians' offices are to be open to all patients.

Webster and Rostraver Township residents should go to physicians in Westmoreland County and not Washington County.

Residents living outside Westmoreland County are requested not to seek the free polio shots during tomorrow's program. The Society said they should wait until their own counties launch a similar program.

Physicians who "run out" of free vaccine during tomorrow's program can obtain additional supplies at the State Health Center at Third street and Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen.

Blow Fire Sirens

Fire sirens in Monessen and Webster will be sounded on the hour from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. tomorrow to remind residents of "polio day", firemen from both communities announced.

Big Air Force Plane Crashes; 159 Are Aboard

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—A U.S. Air Force C124 Globemaster with 159 persons aboard crash-landed tonight on a tiny island in the Han River near Seoul, injuring scores of persons.

There were no immediate reports of fatalities but many passengers were reported seriously injured.

By midnight, more than four hours after the crash, 56 injured had been evacuated by Army helicopters to a hospital 20 miles away. A hospital spokesman said most of them suffered burns and fractures.

Far East Air Force headquarters said the big transport was carrying 10 crewmen and 149 passengers—most of them servicemen flying to Japan for rest and recreation leaves.

The Air Force said the plane crashed at 7:45 p.m. (5:45 a.m. EST) on a small island some 11 miles northwest of Kimpo Airbase, south of Seoul.

The C124 apparently skidded across the island after belly-crashing and ended up partially submerged in the freezing waters of the Han River.

Officials said the plane apparently developed engine trouble and made the emergency landing about 20 miles after taking off from Kimpo Air Base.

Mt. Lebanon Jeans Set Is 'Blue' Today

MT. LEBANON, Pa. (UP)—The blue jeans advocates were still "blue" today. The "hangman" never showed up.

Some 400 Mt. Lebanon High School students, many of them wearing Bermuda shorts, gathered at the township park Thursday night waiting to hang an effigy of Dr. Nelson Mills, high school principal, who banned the wearing of blue jeans to classes.

But neither the effigy nor the hangman put in an appearance. It may have been the presence of Police Chief Walter Kunkle and Capt. John J. Kauper who forced a change in plans.

But school officials doubt that the ban met with heavy opposition. They said they had received "97 per cent corporation."

Wildcat Strike Lasts One Shift

WEST MIFFLIN, Pa. (UP)—A wildcat strike at the Continental Can Co. plant here lasted only one shift.

Workers returned to work early today after about 150 employes on the Thursday night shift left their jobs in a dispute over work assignments.

Officials of the plant, which employs about 1,000 persons, said everything was back to normal this morning.

Child Gulps 96 Pills, Survives

HILLSIDE, N.J. (UP) — Mark Jenett, 2½, gulped down 96 pills prescribed for underactive thyroid glands Thursday, but survived.

The child was taken to Babies Hospital in nearby Newark, where doctors pumped out his stomach. A hospital spokesman said the boy appeared in good condition.

Doctors said such a large dose of thyroid pills could have been fatal.

Four Convicted In Looting of Toy Distributors

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Four men were convicted Thursday night in the systematic looting of an uptown Pittsburgh wholesale toy distributing company.

The defendants were accused of using $53,000 worth of stolen merchandise to stock their own flourishing retail toy store in the Franco-Belgian Hall at Sturgeon, Allegheny County.

A fifth defendant was found innocent of all charges.

A Criminal Court jury of seven women and five men returned the verdicts after deliberating two and a half hours.

Convicted were Raymond Caldwell, 34, and Jack Kendrick, 38, both of Pittsburgh, George Phillips, 37, of Carnegie, and Richard Zethner, 32, of McKees Rocks. Louis Cacella, 37, Pittsburgh, was acquitted.

Earlier Thursday, visiting Judge Burton R. Laub of Erie County, dismissed charges against Cacella's brother-in-law, Raymond Cillo, for lack of evidence.

New trial motions were filed for Zethner and Kendrick.

Teachers Hold Second Annual Workshop

Dr. James Snoke, assistant superintendent of Allegheny County schools, was the principal speaker at the second professional improvement workshop held yesterday afternoon at Monessen High School.

Sponsored jointly by the Monessen School District and Monessen Education Association, the workshop centered around five topics dealing with the teaching profession. The subjects were: unifying the profession, living dynamically, improving teacher welfare, molding public opinion and a legislative program. Theme of the workshop was, "Unlimited Opportunities".

Local teachers in charge of the discussions were Elizabeth Spence, Mary Breza, Mrs. Miriam Johnson, Armand Mori and John Duronio. Recording the highlights of the discussions were Norma Maata, Jean Miller, Mary Kordistos, Carolyn Sedey and Thomas Bicanich.

Talks Given

Later the group heard talks by David F. Stafford, research director for the Pennsylvania State Education Association; Lucy Valero, immediate past president of the P. S. E. A., and Dorothy Harpster, a faculty member at California State Teachers College.

Clifford Jones, president of the Monessen Education Association, delivered the welcome address and greetings were extended by Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of local public schools.

Lunch was served in the cafeteria by girl students from the Future Teachers of America.

Plans for the workshop were formulated by Wilma Lander and Tynne Hanninen, co-chairmen. They were assisted by Eleanor Shutterly, Elise Silko, Mrs. Marilyn Simpson, Francis Vescio, Mary Butler, Henry Furio, Alfred Hazelbaker, Jones and Dr. Pallone.

Reds in Swipe At Marine Corps

MOSCOW (UP)—The Journal Soviet Fleet today branded the United States Marine training system a "savage example of the primitive notorious American way of life which makes even the armed forces slaves to millionaires."

Under the subheadline "Savage customs in American barracks," the Soviet navy organ said "cruel treatment of recruits was an everyday occurrence at the Parris Island (South Carolina) Marine training base.

The article suggested that the same treatment existed in other branches of the U.S. armed services. It asserted that the Parris Island system was an "inseparable part of the notorious American way of living which pursues one aim—to force servicemen obediently to serve the interests of millionaires and act as suppressors of freedom and independence.

Sea Lion Puts TV Audience Out of Seats

NEW YORK (UP)—A sea lion escaped into the audience of the Garry Moore TV show this morning, chasing some 100 members of the studio audience out of their seats and up the aisles.

The animal, appearing as a guest during the third segment of the CBS-TV show, was chomping contentedly on a fish when it apparently took fright at a mike noise.

It scooted to the edge of the stage and plumped into the right side of the orchestra while a capacity holiday crowd of some 50 persons howled.

Moore advised the audience to scoot. They did.

Waddling under the seats, the sea lion squirmed its way up to the fifth row of the orchestra. Stagehands armed with broomsticks, Moore and animal expert Ivan Sanderson worked frantically for six minutes before they succeeded in boxing it in.

The TV cameras panned in while a nationwide TV audience watched.

Said Moore to his panting audience: "Aren't you glad you came?"

The show went on to an uneventful conclusion.

Rubbish Fire at Jewelry Store

Fire threatened the S. A. Meyer Jewelry Store at 555 Donner avenue about 8 o'clock last night.

The fire started in a rubbish pile in the alley at the rear of the store.

It was the second rubbish fire within a week to threaten a downtown business estaglishment. Last Saturday night firemen extinguished a rubbish fire at the rear of Stern's Furniture Store before it could cause any major damage.

Last night's alarm brought out all of the City's downtown fire equipment. The blaze was controlled before it could spread to the store.

Husband Shot To Death; Wife Held by Police

SCRANTON, Pa. (UP)—Eugene J. Gribbin, 34, was shot to death Thursday night while talking on the telephone and police arrested his wife, Doris, 41, in connection with the shooting.

State police said Gribbin was shot in the back as he used the phone in the vestibule of his home in nearby Mt. Cobb. The couple's three children were believed to have witnessed the shooting.

Investigators said the shooting followed an argument which developed after the couple returned from celebrating Mrs. Gribbin's birthday.

Gribbin was talking on the phone to Robert C. Hettes, of Greentown, Pike County, when a .22 caliber rifle bullet struck him near the left shoulder blade, police said.

Hettes said he was arranging with Gribbin for a ride to the Daystrom Instrument plant at Archbald where both were employed. He said he heard a shot and Gribbin fall to the floor.

He said he then heard Gribbin's three children — Doris, 12, Betty Lou, 10, and Jean, 8—call out: "get a doctor."

Hettes telephoned state troopers at the Honesdale Barracks who found the victim face down on the floor. They said he apparently died instantly.

French Troops Kill 50 Algerian Rebels

ALGIERS (UP)—French troops have killed more than 50 Algerian rebels in the last two days, French authorities reported today.

Official sources said fighting was still going on in the Sidi Aick region 132 miles west of Constantine where 18 rebels were reported killed in two days fighting.

Britain France Won't Go Along With Reprisals

By UNITED PRESS

Britain and France split today with the United States over the question of reprisals against Israel, and Britain was reported seeking a compromise solution to prevent an open break.

Premier Guy Mollet of France called an emergency cabinet meeting on the Mideast and his forthcoming talks with President Eisenhower. Reliable sources said he would demand a strong declaration of support for Israel.

At the same time authoritative sources in London said Britain's Conservative government was not prepared to go along with reprisals which the United States may now demand.

The two developments came as Israel appealed to the world and especially the United States for "understanding" in its refusal to quit Egyptian territory without firm guarantees.

But Israel prepared for the worst, and Jerusalem newspapers warned that sanctions and acute hardship may lie ahead as result of Premier David Ben-Gurion's "no" to President Eisenhower's call for unconditional withdrawal.

Israelis Postpone Vote

The Israeli parliament postponed a vote on Ben-Gurion's "no withdrawal" speech pending another diplomatic try at negotiations by Ambassador Abba Eban who left today by plane for the United States.

Most of the speakers — with exception of the Communists — supported Ben-Gurion during today's debate and insisted that there must be guarantees against Egyptian attacks or there will be no withdrawal under any circumstances.

Informed sources in London said Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was hoping to avoid an open break with the United States by finding a compromise plan acceptable to Israel, the Arab nations and the other members of the U.N.

The sources said Britain hoped for a solution under which Israeli forces would withdraw from the disputed areas and a United Nations force would take their places. This would safeguard Israel against Egyptian infiltration and ensure freedom of Israeli navigation.

British sources said the plan already had the support of France, Australia, Canada and some of the West European nations.

Ambassador Abba Eban left Jerusalem today for Washington in hopes of reopening negotiations on a U.S. withdrawal plan, but American officials said there was "no chance" the United States would change its mind.

U.S. delegates to the United Nations said also they would not request another postponement of the General Assembly's Middle East debate scheduled for 3 p.m. EST today.

The Afro-Asian bloc of 27 nations was ready with a resolution calling for sanctions against Israel for its continued defiance of

Takes Recorder Into Jail; Clears Self of Charges

PITTSBURGH (UP) — An East Pittsburgh man who concealed a tape recorder to gather evidence has been found innocent of charges of conspiracy to commit robbery and accessory before the fact of robbery.

A Criminal Court jury deliberated four hours Thursday night in finding Harry Jessup, 23, not guilty. But Jessup was ordered to pay costs of about $125.

Jessup testified he was granted court permission to visit Daniel Newell, 27, of Braddock, in the county jail. Wearing a miniature midget recording machine on his wrist, Jessup talked to Newell who had admitted Jessup had been "framed." The tape recording of the conversation was played in court.

Newell and Leonard Marish, of Homestead, had pleaded guilty earlier before Judge Loren L. Lewis to charges of robbing Milton Friedman, of McKeesport, last Oct. 7 at a Hazelwood district apartment. They said the "job" had been prepared by Jessup. Both await sentence.

Newell was called to the stand after the recording was played and denied making the statements under questioning by Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard Staisey.

Donora Steel Union Protests Nail Imports

Congressman Elmer J. Holland was scheduled to meet in Pittsburgh today with United Steelworkers officers protesting increased imports of barbed wire and nails from Europe and Japan.

The union leaders represent locals at Donora, Rankin and Cleveland plants of American Steel and Wire Division, U. S. Steel. All three plants manufacture wire and nails.

The USW leaders contend the imported products, priced lower than those produced in this country, are resulting in decreased production and employment at home. They cited the Rankin mill, where they said employment has dropped from 750 to 325.

According to union officers, barbed wire imports have risen from 7,240 tons to 60,084 tons and nail imports from 54,196 tons to 130,598 tons from 1951 to 1955.

In the same period, they claimed, domestic production of barbed wire dropped from 240,000 to 127,000 tons and nails from 843,437 to 653,161 tons.

Driver Arrested in Three-car Mishap

State Police investigated a three-car mishap last night on Route 51 which resulted in the arrest of one driver.

The drivers were identified as Robert T. Groff, 22, of Connellsville; James Russell, 33, of Brownsville, and Daniel Oatneal, 52, of West Newton.

Police said Oatneal and Russell had stopped their cars behind a school bus which had halted on the road. The Groff machine struck the Oatneal machine and pushed it into the rear of the Russell car. Groff will be cited for driving too fast for conditions, police said.

Leader Denies Attempts to 'Freeze' Democrats in Jobs

HARRISBURG (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader claimed today that more than half of the state workers to whom he is trying to extend further civil service protection were appointed under previous Republican administrations.

At his news conference Thursday Leader said a survey showed that 51 per cent of the state employes given civil service status through action of the Executive Board were GOP appointees while the other 49 per cent were appointed during his administration. The survey was cited as proof that the board's action in putting additional state employes under civil service was not an attempt to "freeze" Democratic appointees in their jobs.

The governor said that fears that persons not fully qualified would be "frozen in" without proper screening as to qualifications were not well-founded.

He pointed out that they would have to take a qualifying examination administered by the nonpartisan Civil Service Commission.

"All persons holding these jobs will have to establish their competence and their qualifications by passing the examination," the governor said. "Employes now holding these jobs will gain the security of civil service only after their qualifications have been clearly established."

Leader has asked the Legislature to give additional job security to state employes in the technical and professional fields by putting them under civil service through legislative action.

The governor said that he has no intention of changing his course in the matter of his appointment of William L. Batt, of Toledo, O., as secretary of Labor and Industry. He said Batt's nomination to the post will be kept before the Senate even though the March 1 when Batt will be free to assume the post.

"I have discussed the situation with Sen. (Joseph M.) Barr and he assures me he is making every effort to get unanimous support from the Democratic caucus for confirmation," Leader said. "We will keep Batt's name before the Senate even if there is no action."

One of the Democratic senators who is opposing Batt's confirmation said today that a survey he made of the Democratic delegation showed only six Democratic senators who said they would vote for confirmation. The senator, who preferred to remain unidentified, said the six were Barr and Sens. Jo Hays (Centre); Miles R. Derk (Lycoming); Harryy E. Seyler (York); Theodore H. Schmidt (Allegheny) and George J. Sarraf (Allegheny).

Leader said he would present the administration's Highways Department budget for the next two years to the Legislature the week of March 4. But the governor declined to say whether he will ask for retention of the penny added to the gasoline tax by the last Legislature for emergency flood relief.

U.S. Regrets Israel's Refusal to Withdraw

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House said today the United States regrets Israel's refusal to withdraw its troops from Egyptian soil but welcomes "further discussion" of the Middle East crisis.

The White House statement, issued after a conference between President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said this country will say nothing in the United Nations on the subject of sanctions against Israel until later, possibly Monday.

The White House said Dulles will confer with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, expected to return Saturday from Jerusalem, before the United States makes any presentation to the U.N.

The U.N. General Assembly meets on the Middle East crisis this afternoon.

As to when the United States may make an official stand on sanctions, strongly opposed in Congress, all White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty would say was that no presentation of the U.S. position will be made until, possibly, Monday.

The statement read by Hagerty said:

"The President and the Secretary of State discussed the speech of last night of Prime Minister Ben-Gurion of Israel in so far as the text was available.

"The President and his secretary regret that the government of Israel has not yet found it possible to withdraw its forces from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba.

"The door is certainly not closed to further discussion of the situation.

"The President and his secretary welcome such further discussion because they believe that a full understanding of the United States position and the United Nations resolutions of Feb. 2 should make it possible for Israel to proceed with the withdrawal.

"In the meanwhile, the secretary of state is awaiting the return of the Israeli ambassador

A combined drive for funds will be held in Fayette City during the last week of March and the first week of April, it was announced at a recent meeting here.

Captains were named for various districts to be canvassed in the drive to combine the activities for polio, heart, Red Cross, cancer and cerebral palsy.

The captains and presidents of the American Legion, Legion Auxiliary, Eagles, Eagles Auxiliary, Fire Department, Lions and the Woman's Club, will meet with the various chairmen on Monday, March 4 at 7:30 in the Community Center.

Workers in the drive are expected to call on a maximum of 10 homes. Envelopes will be left and another time scheduled to pick up the contributions.

This is not a united drive, the committee said, in which the funds are apportioned, but is an all-out campaign for these five agencies in one big effort.

A special gifts drive will open the campaign. J. Hilmar Renstrom, postmaster and Robert Premoshis will contact professional and business houses.

Mrs. Stephen Rockidge will captain the Naomi crew; Mrs. J. R. Connelly and Mrs. George Moody, Brownstown; Mrs. Michael Turek, Gillespie. In Fayette City, Mrs. Frank Rihtarcik will have two districts, Navoo and Johnson's Hollow.

Sues Cleveland for $200,000 in Damages

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Howard Hetrick, 52, one-legged Pennsylvania Railroad employe from New Castle, Pa., has filed a damage suit against the City of Cleveland for $200,000.

Hetrick, who broke his leg after stepping into a hole in a sidewalk last Aug. 11, charged the city with negligence. He said he suffered permanent injuries which deprived him of $450 monthly earnings from the railroad.

Dock Workers Will Return Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UP)— An off-again on-again strike of 45,000 East Coast longshoremen ended today and union leaders said dock workers would return to work Saturday.

The strike, which had been "officially" called off Wednesday only to resume Thursday, ended a second time when Norfolk shippers and the Norfolk local of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ind.) reached agreement early today on a new contract.

The Norfolk settlement was arrived at several hours after an accord had been reached at Baltimore, the next-to-the-last port to fall in line.

A policy committee of union vice presidents meets today to rule on a back-to-work order, although ratification voting on new contracts still has not been completed.

Only the Baltimore and Norfolk disputes, both over local issues, had stood in the way of a return to work movement Thursday of dock wallopers in other ports from Portland, Me., to Norfolk. ILA President William Bradley had ordered stevedores in ports other than Baltimore and Norfolk to return to their jobs Thursday, but the rank-and-file, on the recommendations of local leaders, pledged to continue work stoppages until agreements were reached in Baltimore and Norfolk.

Bradley denied, however, that the refusal of stevedores to heed his order Thursday constituted a repudiation of ILA leadership. He said "confusion, more than anything else" was to blame.

Mardi Gras Time Is Near

NEW ORLEANS (UP)— Mardi Gras is more than a week away in the South's Queen City, but already lighted paper clowns are grinning from lamp posts at the crowds on Canal Street.

New Orleans calls its Canal Street the widest in the world. Few of the half-million visitors to the city for Mardi Gras will dispute the claim.

Only the world's biggest street could hold the surging, costumed revelers who will parade, dance, sing, eat and drink on Mardi Gras, "Fat Tuesday," which is March 5 this year.

Thousands of visitors have already descended on New Orleans' hotels. Reservations are hard to get at $14 a day for the early part of March.

Most of the collections were made on Feb. 12 when individual members of several organizations including the Lions Club toured the community.

PTA Pushes School Building

Asks State Lawmakers to Boost Construction Ceilings

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers said today the state Legislature must boost the ceiling for subsidized school building construction to meet increased building costs and an expanding school population.

The half-million member group called on the state lawmakers to make the increase in a summary of its program of major legislative needs for the next two years.

Dr. Raymond H. Koch, Columbia, an official of the organization, said the group also would press for appropriations to meet the mandated teachers' salary increases of 1955.

"The rising cost of living, the number of teachers continuing to leave the profession, the number of teachers seeking and taking employment in other states should cause the General Assembly to take a realistic look at compensation given teachers, as well as the various forms of fringe benefits so popular in business and industry," Koch added.

The educator said the group expected an effort to be made in the Legislature to shift educational costs from the state to the local level. He warned that it should be carefully considered because it "fails to face realistically the issue of equal educational opportunity for children and youth."

Says Contract List Made Public Is 'Incomplete'

HARRISBURG (UP)—The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee charged today the administration made public an "incomplete" list of persons holding consultant contracts with the Public Instruction Department.

Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster) said "The list furnished to the Appropriations Committee by the auditor general and compiled from contracts signed by the governor and the superintendent of public instruction contains 29 names which were not made public by the governor's office."

"We are now checking with the auditor general to determine whether any of these persons ever actually was paid anything under these agreements," he said.

Gov. George M. Leader defended the Public Instruction Department and Superintendent Dr. Charles H. Boehm at his Thursday news conference charging the Republican legislators with trying to make "political capital."

Leader said it was the state's "good fortune" to be able to obtain the services of consultants at fees ranging up to $50 a day. He indicated that many of them worked in the reorganization of the department on off-time from their regular posts with the school system.

Prisoners Get Special Awards

NEW YORK (UP) — Inmates of Rikers Island Penitentiary will be rewarded with sentence reductions for their "heroic actions" when a Northeast Airlines plane crashed on the island this month, the parole commission announced Thursday.

John C. Maher, chairman of the commission, said the group followed a request for such consideration which was presented by Commissioner of Correction Anna M. Kross.

"We decided that in view of the heroic actions of those involved," Maher said, "we felt they certainly deserved some form of recompense."

Inmates who risked their lives to rescue passengers from the plane will receive bigger rewards than those who simply helped the injured. But Maher said each case would be decided individually.

Capital Area Pays Homage To Washington

WASHINGTON (UP)—"Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all."

George Washington said it 161 years ago in his farewell address.

Each year on this day — his birthday — the House and Senate gather to hear the address read again.

The House named freshman Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Mich) to read it this afternoon as his maiden address. The Senate named Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz).

Other ceremonies celebrating Washington's birthday were scheduled throughout the capital area.

Masonic organizations planned to lay a wreath on Washington's tomb at his home at Mt. Vernon.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars scheduled their annual Washington's Birthday parade at nearby Alexandria, Va.

Army Secretary Wilber Brucker was scheduled to address a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Children of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution.

Sucks Up 3,000 Angry Bees in Vacuum Cleaner

NORFOLK, Va. (UP)— C. G. Gurley found a home Thursday for 3,000 angry yellow bees he sucked up in a vacuum cleaner.

It was a question of either relocating the bees. Gurley said, or reversing the air flow on the vacuum and blowing them out into the cold cruel world.

Gurley, 4, who used to keep bees himself when he lived in Goldsboro, N.C., captured the insects at the plea of a fellow employe at Norfolk General Hospital, Grover S. Crandall.

The bees had made their home on the side of Crandall's house. Gurley poked the nozzle of the cleaner into the hive and in about half an hour, had them all in the bag.

They rumbled so disconsolately that Gurley accepted the offer of beekeeper John Hannant to give them a nice, new hive.

With the bees situated, Crandall, Gurley and Hannant collected some 40 pounds of honey found in the old hive.

TV Tower Is Tallest Building In New England

BOSTON (UP) — A Boston television station's transmitting tower will be the tallest man-made structure in the six New England states.

WBZ-TV's transmitter will rise 1,349 feet above sea level, more than twice the height of the Custom House and the John Hancock Insurance Co. building, now the two tallest buildings in New England.

The tower and its supporting cables cover a 44-acre tract in suburban Needham. Three guy wires, weighing as much as 21,000 pounds each, will anchor the tower at points 120 degrees apart. The tower will have additional support from more than 20 other shorter cables.

Train Wreck Probe Awaits 'Vital' Witness

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission awaited "vital" information from an absent witness today after testimony that a New York Central passenger train had accelerated to 68 miles an hour just before it crashed into a freight train Feb. 8 near Ripley, N.Y.

At a public hearing which closed here Thursday, the recording tape from the cab of the diesel units pulling the Central's "Easterner" showed the train's speed was cut to 28 miles an hour when engineer John V. Miller applied emergency brakes. Miller was killed in the crash.

Testimony of H. F. Hempy of Cleveland, a Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers official, was scheduled to be recorded by disposition in New York City within 10 days. It was described as "vital" to the investigation.

L. S. Randolph, supervisor of locomotive performance for the railroad, testified the tape's marking indicated the "Easterner" had slowed to 28 miles an hour when it rammed a 27-car freight. The accident occurred on a new, electronically - controlled section of track described by the Central as the "world's safest."

In earlier testimony, Central inspector Ivan Hesler said part of the automatic signalling equipment was found defective a few hours after the wreck. He said a wayside inductor "failed to pass an impedence test" at the last signal.

Railroad officials contended that Miller ignored a warning yellow signal and continued on his run. Hesler said, however, that had the railside inductor been functioning properly, a warning whistle would have sounded in the locomotive's cab.

Such was not the case, according to fireman Ned W. Thompson of the passenger train. He said he and Miller thought the signal switched from yellow to green as the train went by.

Thomas Niemyski, Erie, Pa., train dispatcher, defended the railroad's new control system as so foolproof "a five-year-old boy could start punching buttons without causing a wreck."

MCCARTHY VS. ZWICKER AGAIN — Senator Joseph McCarthy (left) chats with acting chairman Senator Harry F. Byrd prior to his appearance before the Senate armed services committee. McCarthy testified against the proposed promotion of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, a prominent figure in the 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings.

"The President and the secretary also conferred by telephone with Ambassador Lodge in New York City with respect to the presentation to the United Nations of the United States position. the U.N. resolution demanding "immediate" withdrawal.

The United States has not asked for sanctions—President Eisenhower spoke only of "pressure" by the United Nations in forcing Israel to give up the Gaza Strip on Sharm El Sheikh which controls the Gulf of Aqaba.

The United States previously told Israel that in return for withdrawal it would work to assure Israel freedomof navigation in the Israel freedom of navigation in the gulf and would work to send United Nations forces into Gaza.

Ben-Gurion told Parliament Thursday night he would not order a withdrawal without adequate guarantees. Informed sources said he planned to reject the Eisenhower proposal outright but decided after daylong consultations with Eban and cabinet members to ask for new talks.

The United States came under strong criticism in the British House of Commons and Conservative member Hugh Fraser said "some of the statements made in America lately are really utterly objectionable to most M.P.'s in this house."

The situation was so serious Prime Minister Harold MacMillan called a weekend meeting of six of his ministers to consider the anti-American statements and the threatened split in the Conservative Party over Suez policy. Some elements of the Conservative Party were in revolt.

Egypt Praises Stand

Egypt continued to praise Mr. Eisenhower's stand on the Arab-Israeli dispute but the praise today was tempered with criticism of the fact he upheld Israel's claim to the right of free navigation of the Gulf of Aqaba.

Col. Alfred G. Katzin, a U.N. deputy undersecretary and top U.N. troubleshooter, arrived in Cairo today to try to speed up clearance of the Suez Canal, but the crisis over Israel's refusal to leave Egypt threatened more delay.

There have been persistent reports Egypt was blocking full clearance of the Suez Canal until Israel withdraws from Aqaba and Gaza.

Harrimans Celebrate

ALBANY, N.Y. (UP)—Gov. and Mrs. Averell Harriman celebrated their 27th wedding anniversary at a small private dinner party Thursday night.

Queen Promotes Her Husband

LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth formally granted her husband the title of "Prince of the Kingdom" today in an apparent final answer to gossip about his status.

The token promotion of the Duke of Edinburgh was proclaimed two weeks to the day after an American newspaper reported gossip of a rift between the Queen and her husband after nine years of marriage.

The proclamation, published in tonight's official London Gazette, declared:

"The Queen has been pleased by letters patent under the Great Seal of the Realm bearing date 22nd February, 1957, to give and grant unto His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, K.G., K.T., G.B.E., the style and titular dignity of a prince of the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland."

A second proclamation declared that "the Queen has been pleased to declare her will and pleasure that his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh shall henceforth be known as his Royal Highness the Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh."

This touching gesture was the Queen's first official act of state following her return from a visit to Portugal during which she was reunited with the Duke after a four-month separation.

It was this long period apart which apparently set off talk about their status.

The Queen and her husband, however, left little doubt about their love during the happiness of a "second honeymoon" aboard the royal yacht off Portugal last weekend. The couple returned from Portugal Thursday night for a joyful reunion with their children — 8-year-old Prince Charles and 5-year-old Princess Anne.

The Duke's status had been the subject of British press comment even before his just-ended separation from the Queen. This was centered on an apparent oversight in the constitutional paperwork, accompanying his rank as the Queen's husband.

Georgia Legislature Asks Impeachment of Justices

Resolution Will Be Forwarded To Congressmen

ATLANTA (UP)—The Georgia House wound up legislative approval today of a measure asking impeachment of six U.S. Supreme Court members including Chief Justice Earl Warren and moved on to debate a bill that would ban racially mixed sports in the state.

The House approved 112-13 a Senate amendment and sent to Gov. Marvin Griffin an administration resolution asking Georgia's congressional delegation to start impeachment proceedings against two-thirds of the nation's highest court.

One legislator who voted for the resolution earlier took the floor on a point of personal privilege to swich his stand.

"I voted for this resolution before," Rep. D. B. Blalock, one of the most influential members of the House, told fellow lawmakers. "Today, I'm just as ashamed as I can be. I want to apologize to the people and the state of Georgia. I hope you kill this measure."

Delegation Quiet

In Washington, Georgia's congressional delegation treated the matter like it was a hot potato and was reluctant to comment on what will be done with the recommendation.

Approval of the sports measure also was predicted by administration forces in the Legislature.

Pickup 3rd pgh: A charge of

A charge of "ridiculous . . McCarthyism" reached its highest pitch in the Senate which nevertheless passed the impeachment demand Thursday, 37-11, and returned it to the House.

'High Crimes'

The resolution accusing the justices of committing "high crimes and misdemeanors" in decisions concerning segregation. Communist subversion and states' rights has already passed the House once.

Critics of the Senate - passed baseball bill warned it might drive big league exhibition games and farm teams from the state and doom the Class A South Atlantic League.

The bill to outlaw all forms of racially mixed entertainment was frankly aimed at baseball clubs having both white and Negro players as do four Georgia teams of the South Atlantic League.

Two from State Get Federal Jobs

WASHINGTON (UP)— Federal appointments of two Pennsylvanians were confirmed by voice vote and without debate by the Senate Thursday.

Arthur Larson, former dean of the University of Pittsburgh Law School, was approved as director of the U.S. Information Agency. Robert Dechert was approved as counsel for the Defense Department.

23 District Drivers Lose Their Licenses

The licenses of 23 district drivers have been suspended by the Bureau of Highway Safety during the three-week period ending Feb. 1, it was announced today.

Licenses were restored to 15 other drivers.

Suspensions were given to the following:

Driver One of The Lucky Ones

FLORENCE, Pa. (UP)—Donald D. Cronin, 26, of 424 Grace St. Pittsburgh, is luckier than many motorists who have tangled with Washington County's notorious "Death Bridge."

Cronin, driving east on Route 22, hit the abutment of the narrow span near here at 2 a.m. today. His car overturned, but Cronin escaped unscathed except for a shaking-up, police said.

State police said Cronin's 1956 model car suffered about $500 damage.

The span, soon to be replaced, has been dubbed "Death Bridge" by residents of the area because so many persons have died as a result of accidents there in recent years.

Last night Life Master Aaron Ritter gave his second in a series of defensive bridge play lectures and next Thursday at 7:45 p. m. he will deliver the third lecture to the club before play.

Plane Crashes Into Garage Near School

HERTFORD, N.C. (UP) — Searchers Thursday night found the body of a Navy jet pilot who bailed out of his plane shortly before it crashed into a garage near a school where 500 children were in classes. His parachute failed to open.

The Navy identified the pilot as Ens. William W. Bell of Longton, Kan. One of the two school bus mechanics working in the garage, J. Van Roach, 57, died Thursday night of burns he received when the F3H Demon jet crashed into the building.

Searchers found Bell's body on a farm about four miles southeast of here.

The second garage mechanic, Preston Morgan, 28, was in critical condition but was expected to live.

Mayor V. M. Darden and school authorities said "we were just lucky." If the plane had crashed 90 minutes later a number of children might have been on the athletic field which separates the school from the garage some 300 yards away.

GOP Wants no Party Fight Over Doctrine

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate GOP leaders once more made clear today they want no party line fight over the Eisenhower Doctrine.

They are willing to help push through the weakened Democratic version as quickly as possible.

Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt) introduced an amendment Thursday that would restore the original stronger wording to the Doctrine.

The move received no visible backing.

Senate GOP Leader William Knowland told newsmen Flanders spoke only for himself. He said the Republicans would make no party fight for the stronger wording already passed by the House.

The administration — acting on the advice of GOP Senate leaders — apparently is looking to a Senate-House Conference Committee to get a Doctrine nearer to its original proposal.

Other congressional news:

Guard: The Army rejected a proposed congressional compromise in its fight to have National Guardsmen get more training. A House Armed Services subcommittee had proposed the Army postpone its extended training plan for 15 months.

Missiles: The House Armed Services Committee directed its staff to conduct a preliminary investigation into the unguided flight of a Matador guided missile. The Matador escaped control at Alamagordo, N.M. It was reported to have crashed in Wyoming.

Racketeering: Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate Labor Rackets Committee issued a warning to anyone who destroys subpenaed union records: The punishment may be a year in jail. The committee disclosed that subpenaed Teamster Union records are missing and apparently were destroyed.

Air Force: Democratic senators tentatively called for giving the Air Force more money to develop an atomic powered plane. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson told the Senate Armed Services Committee a 75 per cent cut back in funds for the research program is justified. Committee Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) were unconvinced.

Farm: House Democratic farm leaders charged the administration's soil bank has "poured money down a rathole." They said the program has only partly curbed production of surplus feed grains.

Good Night Kisses Banned at Dormitory

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP)— Good night kisses have been banned at one University of Michigan women's dormitory because of "numerous complaints of excessive osculation and cuddling."

Members of the Dormitory Council of Stockwell Hall voted 14-4 Thursday night to ban kissing anywhere in the area of the hall. The council said its action was prompted by numerous complaints of "excessive shows of affection."

Runaway Missile Has Air Force Guessing

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UP)— A runaway Matador guided missile traveling north at 650 miles an hour had the Air Force guessing today whether it ever will be found.

There were reports the missile, which did not carry an explosive warhead, had been spotted in western Colorado; near Salt Lake City, Utah, and in southwest Wyoming. But none of the rumored sightings could be confirmed.

One report said the Matador, which escaped from ground control at Holloman Air Force Base near here Thursday, crashed and exploded in the Rock Springs, Wyo., area, 700 miles north of Alamogordo, but it later was discovered the explosion was caused by a seismograph crew making a dynamite sounding.

The radio-controlled missile, described by the Air Force as a "pilotless bomber" with a "tactical range," was last seen some 90 miles northwest of Albuquerque. It was heading for the southern Colorado border.

When the ground crew lost control of the missile, Capt. Richard Starkey of Holloman was sent aloft to chase it in a non-jet camera plane. When he saw he didn't stand a chance of catching the uncontrolled Matador, he radioed the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Albuquerque. A jet interceptor from Kirtland Air Force Base joined the chase from there. But neither plane could keep up with the runaway.

Holloman officials said the $100,000 Matador, powered by a J33 jet engine, was launched on a routine test mission, carrying research instruments in its warhead.

The officials said something went wrong in the missile's safety device and it shook loose from a crew which was controlling it from the ground.

Your Health—

Preparing Your Child For Trip to Hospital

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Take a tip from George Washington — don't fib

Don't dramatize the situation, but tell your child the truth when he has to go to the hospital for treatment or an operation

Advise him calmly and truthfully just why it is necessary for him to leave home and what will happen at the hospital.

Emphasize the fact that his discomfort and pain will disappear and that the doctors and nurses are his pals and want to help him.

Find out from the doctor just what will have to be done

If surgery is necessary, tell your youngster that the doctor will let him smell something that will make him feel nothing. Don't tell him that the doctor will put him to sleep.

Tell him, too, that you will spend as much time as possible with him in the hospital and assure him that he will come back home as quickly as it can be arranged.

There's no sense worrying a youngster, so you don't have to tell him these things until a day or two before he must leave. If he wants to cry or carry on, let him. It might help him adjust to the situation.

If you don't tell a child the truth, his active imagination might dream up some really horrible visions of hospital life.

Any youngster who is tricked into entering a hospital might suffer great shock upon suddenly being left along in a strange world

If your tot has a favorite toy or blanket, let him keep it with him if the hospital permits. His own pajamas, slippers or bathrobe will be comforting, too. They'll serve to form a definite link with his home.

Before you leave him, give him something that can be associated with you, such as a handkerchief, a scarf, perhaps one of your old purses.

Be sure to be with him before they take him to the operating room and stay with him until he's given the sedative, if the doctor approves. When he awakes following the surgery, he'll expect to find you at his side. Be there.

Galen Drake Makes Big Step Into Television

NEW YORK UP) — Galen Drake, possessor of 20 years of hash stripes in radio, has made the big bound into TV.

It is, he confesses, a pretty hectic way to make a living.

"I do seven radio shows a week and only one TV show, but that TV program is more work than the others put together." said Drake today. "Everywhere you look on the set of a TV show, you see people. It's almost impossible to move.

"On a radio show, you have two guys in your corner—the engineer and director. But for this one half-hour TV show, I've got 65 people around me.

"If you want to move a fountain pen, you have to call the prop man If you want to move a desk, you have to call a stagehand. If you want to move a TV monitor, only a cameraman can touch it. It was rather fantastic at first. But I think I'm finally getting used to it."

Drake, who pilots two network radio efforts each week on CBS along with five local radio shows, resisted the leap into the new medium for seven years.

Editorials—

The President Follows A Consistent Course

PRESIDENT Eisenhower took considerable pains in his radio-TV talk Wednesday evening to explain the present crisis in the Middle East, which results from Israel's refusal to remove her troops from Egyptian soil, and American policy with respect to this unhappy situation. And we remain satisfied that Mr. Eisenhower is following a wise, consistent and courageous course which deserves the support of the American people.

The Israeli government, to put the matter in its simplest terms, is trying to settle its differences with a neighbor by the use of force. Having made an aggressive attack on Egypt and seized Egyptian territory, it is now using these gains in order to bargain for its national objectives. In doing so, it is deliberately defying the almost unanimous decisions of the United Nations Assembly.

President Eisenhower made it clear that the United States cannot possibly support the Israeli position and be faithful to its obligations under the U. N. Charter. For it is basic to the spirit of the Charter, to which Israel also has subscribed, that armed force is not to be used to settle international differences.

This — and not the legitimacy of Israel's objectives — is the immediate issue. And unless this issue is solved and Israel rejects the use of force and withdraws its troops from Egypt, the President said, it will be "infinitely more difficult" to proceed with orderly solutions of the Middle East's complicated problems.

This is a sensible and logical view of the situation.

* * *

AS USUAL, the conduct of American policy where Israel is concerned is complicated by the existence of a highly vocal and evidently influential minority which blindly insists that the United States must always side with Israel whether Israel is right or wrong. And also as usual, this group has spokesmen in both political parties.

Just now the main argument of these spokesmen is that, since the United Nations is not applying pressure on big Russia for its misdeeds in Hungary, it should not be applying pressure on little Israel for its misdeeds in Egypt.

In dealing with this argument, the President pointed out that both the U. N. and the U. S. have done everything short of war to bring pressure on Russia. He also called attention to the fact that, because of its power and its veto in the Security Council, Russia is in a rather special position. But he said:

"There can be no equating of a nation like Israel with that of the Soviet Union. The people of Israel, like those of the United States, are imbued with a religious faith and a sense of moral values.

"We are entitled to expect, and do expect, from such peoples of the free world a contribution to world order which unhappily we cannot expect from a nation controlled by atheistic despots."

* * *

LOYAL Americans, including those who feel particular friendship for Israel among this nation's many friends, have but one logical course it seems to us. This is to continue to give President Eisenhower the support he needs as he wisely and patiently asserts this nation's influence on the side of peace and order. And those Americans who have influence in Israel we think would be well advised to help that little nation's rulers to see that Israel can have no future except as a law-abiding citizen in a world order based on law rather than on force.

A Specious Argument

THE U. S. CHAMBER of Commerce, which is opposed in principle to federal aid to the states to encourage the construction of school buildings, is using what seems to us to be a specious argument against the Eisenhower administration's school construction bill.

This bill would provide federal aid according to a formula which would take into account the varying needs of the states for additional classrooms and their varying financial abilities to provide more classrooms. The administration idea is that no American child should be denied an adequate education because his parents happen to live in one of the poorer states.

The U. S. Chamber is now circulating what it calls an "analysis" of the bill which shows that 16 states and the District of Columbia would provide about $100 million annually to build 3,326 classrooms in other states. The implication, of course, is that the citizens of Pennsylvania shouldn't be asked to help the children of Alabama get better schools.

How antediluvian can the U. S. Chamber get, anyway? If this is going to be the principle under which we conduct our federal government, why should Pennsylvania taxes be used to maintain an army to defend Oregon. Let Oregon defend itself.

The need of a properly educated citizenry is as essential to America as an adequate national defense.

Behind The News—

A Big Step Towards a United Europe

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Six European countries have decided to work out a plan for economic unity which statesmen have dreamed of for many years.

The prime ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg agreed Wednesday to establish a customs union which they hope eventually will lead to a virtual merger of their economies.

They also agreed to establish a pool for cooperation in the use of atomic power for peaceful purposes.

"We have taken a major step toward a united Europe," Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany said after the meeting of premiers in Paris.

Climax Of Long Talks

Negotiations for the customs union took 20 months to complete.

These negotiations, however, were the fruit of plans which date back to the end of World War I.

If the present plan works out, the countries concerned will establish a common market which will serve 160 million people.

Later, it is proposed to bring in 11 other countries, extending from Iceland to Turkey.

The new plan can not compete for headlines with the more dramatic developments in world politics.

Its complexity is shown by the fact that it will not be put into effect until next Jan. 1 and that experts say it will take 12 to 15 years to reach its culminating stage.

A Key Move

But assuming that the plan works—and the countries involved seem to be determined to make it work — it is one of the most important moves in years in international cooperation.

Eventually, it is hoped that the whole farming and industrial product of participating countries will be merged.

It is calculated to raise living standards as well as to end economic rivalries.

Statesmen and economists who have long dreamed of such a plan have pointed out that economic rivalries sometimes lead to wars.

The official name for the new plan is "Common Market".

Shortened to "Euromarket"

This has been shortened technically into "Euromarket" in keeping with the modern tendency to apply trick words to simple things. The atomic pool is called "Euratom."

The prime ministers who reached the agreement in Paris intend to meet in Rome next month—possibly as early as March 10—to sign a formal treaty incorporating the common market plan.

Then experts will start the long, tedious job of working out the details. These details will include the gradual abolition of tariffs and customs duties which the countries now impose on the products they exchange.

The customs bloc will rank in importance with those of the United States, Soviet Russia and the British Commonwealth.

But its great significance lies in the fact that it is a big step toward the unification of Europe.

Washington's Heritage: Truth

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's note—Drew Pearson's column on Washington's Birthday takes the form of a letter to his grandson, Drew Arnold.)

Washington, D. C.
February 20, 1957

Dear Drew,

This should reach you about Washington's Birthday, and you won't be going to school. Lucky guy. I wish I were like you and didn't have to write a column today. But my schoolteachers — in this case quite a few editors — think I should work regardless of the founder of our country. Perhaps they will let me off with a letter to you instead of a column.

When I was your age I didn't pay much attention to George Washington's Birthday except that it gave me a day off from school and my brother used to try to chop me down with a papier mache hatchet. It took me quite awhile to understand how great a man George Washington was. His press relations weren't very good at that time. He wasn't able to hire B.B.D. and O. or any of the high-powered advertising agencies of Madison Ave. He didn't even have a Jim Hagerty handling his press relations, and the newspapers really went after him before he retired.

But he not only steered this country through its toughest period, he left us some great principles. One you talk about in school is how he told the truth about chopping down the cherry tree. And despite some people's idea that this was a myth, I am glad this is taught and remembered today. Because you can't run a country, or a business, or a family, or even yourself without telling the truth.

The business your granddaddy is in has to worry a lot about the truth. We are always trying to track down the truth, and sometimes the truth is very hard to report. Whole batteries of press relations men are hired in the government and by business firms to conceal the truth, or influence the truth, or gloss over the truth.

This makes it difficult to tell the truth. Nevertheless to ignore the truth can be just as bad as not telling the truth. When a newspaperman, for instance, omits the truth in order to curry favor with a bureaucrat or the White House, he is, in effect, lying to the public.

When Truth Is Ignored

For instance, when the Associated Press described George Allen as a "crony of President Truman" and as "an occasional golfing partner in the President's Gettysburg farm, also was his partner in a Howard Johnson restaurant, has been a bridge-playing partner during the long Georgia vacation and on many other occasions, then the AP is not fulfilling its trust to the public.

Or when newspapermen fail to report that George Allen, who was chairman of the Yemen Oil Co., was with the President during his vacation when the President was making demands on Israel, again they are neglecting important truth.

The truth is not always on the surface. It can't be scooped up like cream off the surface of milk. Sometimes it has to be drilled, dynamited, blasted out of piles of bureaucratic red tape and batteries of press officials to get the real facts.

Sometimes also you make mistakes. You think you are telling the truth, but you find you were wrong. I made one the other day about Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island when I listed him as voting for the natural gas bill. This was a foolish mistake, for he voted just the other way. I shouldn't have made the mistake, and I have now apologized to Senator Pastore.

Then I made a mistake the other day in calling Henry Clay a Democrat. I thought I knew my history, but I didn't. Clay was a Whig. When you do make a mistake you get plenty of reminders from other people, and I promptly got one from John H. Powell in Philadelphia telling me that if Clay was a Democrat, then Andy Jackson was a Whig and Bryan was a Republican. "Of course," said Mr. Powell. "Adlai Stevenson is always quoting Lincoln. Lincoln must have been a Democrat."

Of course you won't understand this, but when you get a little older and study the fascinating history of the United States you will.

In recent years it has seemed to me that government officials have tried more and more to hide the truth or even twist the truth — including the President himself. He did not used to be this way.

I remember during the war I wrote a famous story reporting that General Patton had gone into an Army hospital in Sicily and struck a hospitalized soldier. General Eisenhower's headquarters immediately issued a categoric denial. The story was true, but it was my word against Eisenhower's, and I received indignant telegrams from editors all over the country. The next day, however, General Eisenhower issued a second statement telling the truth and reporting that General Patton had been disciplined.

I never asked Ike what happened. I just figured he had decided the best policy was to tell the truth.

During the recent election, something happened involving the truth which could affect your life and the lives of all boys and girls your age.

Adlai Stevenson proposed outlawing H-bomb tests. Just a few days before he proposed this, the President and his advisers had decided on the same course. They had decided that so much dangerous poison was building up in the atmosphere from H-bomb tests that it might affect the lives of little boys like you in the future.

But after Mr. Stevenson proposed this, the President made vigorous speeches telling the public that Stevenson was all wrong and that his plan would endanger the safety of the nation. This was not the truth, and the American public was deceived.

Now that the elections are over, some of the Presiden's advisers have urged that we adopt the Stevenson idea of banning H-bomb test, and the President has partially adopted the Stevenson plan.

But the American public still does not know the real truth of what happened before the elections and how dangerous the H-bomb tests can be.

So remember when you get the day off from schol, it's not just to give you more time to play, but because George Washington taught us a great lesson — telling the truth.

Love,
Grandpa

Good Secretary Harder To Find than Wife

By MARGARET LATROBE

"A good secretary," recently spake a California husband, "is more important than a wife." And during the divorce proceedings, he added, "You can replace a wife anytime, but not a secretary."

Mrs. Latrobe

The plaintiff, or woman, st have been of touch with business ld for a long e. What wife esn't know at!

That bosses are only as valuable to a company as their secretaries are efficient is a fact known to Girl Fridays ever since they quit working Saturdays. Only recently, however, has this fearsom truth been wrung from the high brass. "Where'd I be without Miss Blodgett?" is what causes executive ulcers, nine times out of 10. And so bad is the secretarial shortage that bosses try to keep customers from meeting their secretaries nowadays, rather than vice versa.

Why do you suppose Harvard is the popular scene of refresher courses for potential vice presidents? "Executive training" is only the pretext by which young chaps are winnowed from the hopefuls in a company, and sent off to pal around with kindred chaps for an eight week brush-up. Already bright as it is, there is little by way of "conditions, markets, personnel and production" they don't know.

The real point in post-graduate work is smartening up the lads on the art of acquiring and staying worthy of a good secretary, who, after all, keeps private enterprise in good shape.

Executive abilities, 'tis said, lie in three areas — technical skills (knowing enough about anything to be hired in the first place), human skills (knowing whom to pat on the back and when), and conceptual skills (knowing that if the company made money this year, can the tax experts be far behind?). Bosses aren't expected to be tippytoed in all three areas, whereas a first-rate secretary is. By noon of the first day she begins a job, she has picked up all this intellectual nonsense and is ready for the real work at which her boss is helpless.

Take typing. Can the boss tell a typewriter from a water cooler? Take phone calls. Can he dial a number without reaching (inadvertently) the overseas operator to Borneo? All thumbs, these fellows. Can he find a letter in the file?

A whiz at dictating 40-page reports, how is he on two-liners of butter-spreading correspondence—the ladder toward vice presidency? Held captive by unwelcome visitors, can the boss figure how to get rid of them? Extricated by Miss Iron Curtain (secretary, critic and bodyguard) he bawls her out for letting this individual impose on his precious time. "Oh yes . . . I brought him back with me from lunch, so I did, so I did . . ." he finally recalls.

In spite of being so right, junior executives still can make good use of the college short courses. "Don't send my boys to Harvard," sing chairmen of the board, "unless they learn how to influence trends and hire secretaries!"

Without 'em, who will run the shop?

The Lighter Side—

The Good Old Days in Antarctica Recalled

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—My friend and former igloomate, Walter Sullivan, has come up with a book about an earth mass that is truly stranger to man — as the old explorer wheeze goes — than the sunlit side of the moon.

Sullivan is a tall, skinny bundle of energy and erudition who is homeward bound now from his latest of several visits to the lifeless Antarctic as a New York Times correspondent. His "Quest of a Continent", published next week, wraps up 300 years of man's suffering fight to explore the modern ice age that smothers a land nearly as big as South America.

Like A Penguin

Sully—as Admiral Byrd used to call him—was my ship-cabin and ice-tent mate for five months of the fourth Byrd South Polar Expedition of 1946-47. He takes to the "south contree" as easily as a penguin to ice, except for one part of him—his nose.

Many times, walking against the wind at Little America, he turned and asked me: "Is my nose frozen?" It always was — white as a sheet. His sense of freeze was good. But I'm wondering if, after multiple visits to Antarctica, his schnozz isn't suffering deep-frozz.

Sully and I were among 197 men who won the dubious (almost whome?) privilege of living in tents on the Little America ice while the ships were taken 600 miles outside the icepack so they wouldn't get frozen in. In such a situation the word "alone" glistens with new meaning.

Had Beard Trouble

Three of us reporters lived in an ordinary army pyramidal tent, same as is used in the tropics, with a vent in the top and mosquito nets handy. We stuffed the nets in the vent and spare clothing in all corners, and Sully toiled prodigiously cutting out igloo blocks and stacking them outside as windbreakers.

We slept cocooned in double sleeping bags. Sully had grown a huge red beard which often froze solid on him, and then thawed into his coffee and soup when he came inside. One night, he dreamed it was choking him to death. Groping for scissors, he banged into the water bucket. The racket awakened our other roommate, who deduced the tent finally had fallen in.

Struggling to escape his cocoon, he got the zippers jammed and fell to the floor wriggling like a man trying to bust out of a straitjacket. This knocked over the fire extinguisher, which began foaming onto the hoar-frosted tent sides. Next day, Admiral Byrd allowed he'd seen tidier places.

Peoples Forum—

'Radio Free Europe' and The Hungarian Revolt

To the Editor:

As state chairman for the Crusade for Freedom, I feel it is very important that we clarify our position in the minds of the American people on Radio Free Europe's objectives in broadcasting to the people behind the Iron Curtain.

Radio Free Europe, the broadcasting end, and Free Europe Press, the balloon-borne miniature newspaper operation are both "arms" of the Crusade for Freedom. Neither has preached the violent overthrow of any government, but have only "reminded" their audience in the Soviet orbit of its "duty" to press for freedom through peaceful political opposition. . . non-cooperation with the Soviets. RFE broadcasts have presented nothing but objective news and commentaries.

On Nov. 11, 1956 over Radio Budapest, the present Hungarian Communist boss Janos Kadar admitted the real cause of the rebellion was oppression — "We must all agree that the real reason for the people's movement which started Oct. 23 must be sought in the serious faults and crimes which have been committed by the (former Hungarian Communist party boss) Rakosi clique, which was greatly influencing the regime of the country and the party, and which caused great damages to the working population of the country."

President Eisenhower at his press conference on Nov. 14, 1956, evidently disturbed by the charges, said that the U. S. had never advocated open rebellion by an undefended populace, such as Hungary "against force against which they could not possibly prevail." What we have done, he added, was to encourage the people in captive nations to keep their spirit of freedom alive — not to lose hope.

How could we have done anything less? The alternatives would be either to deny that the freedom of spirit is worth keeping alive or to say nothing at all, which would amount to the same thing.

The Crusade for Freedom, originally founded by the then General Eisenhower and General Clay in 1950, deserves editorial support in our country. Certainly recent events in Hungary would indicate that it is particularly important that the Crusade continue its effective work. Anything you can do to bring to the attention of your readers the program conducted by the Crusade will assist in putting this outstandingly worthwhile cause in its proper light.

Day of Prayer Planned by Local Women

"Who Shall Separate Us" is the theme that will be followed for the annual World Day of Prayer observance to be held on March 8 by women from all corners of the earth. The Monessen women will convene at 8 p. m. in the United Presbyterian Church.

This will be the 71st such observance to be held and women from all the Protestant Churches of the town are urged to take part. The first World Day of Prayer was held the first Friday of Lent in 1887.

Services begin on the Tonga Islands west of the International Date Line close to the St. Lawrence Islands, Alaska.

The purpose of the observance is to unite all Christian women in a band of prayer for Christian Missions at home and abroad.

Further announcement concerning the program will be made.

St. Paul Ladies Aid Birthday Party Is Held

A birthday party was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Joseph D'Alessio, of Marion avenue. This annual affair marked the birthday anniversaries of 10 members of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul Lutheran Church, whose birthdays are in February.

The honored women arrange the entertainment and refreshments. Games were played and luncheon was served. Centering the table was a log cabin surrounded by cherry trees and figurines of George and Martha Washington.

There were 30 guests present.

Roman women athletes in the 4th and 5th centuries wore garments like the so-called "Bikini" bathing suit while participating in games. Mosaics uncovered in an imperial villa in Sicily show them racing, hurling a discus, and tossing a ball.

Less Chance for Accidents When Driving on Good Roads

(Fifth in a series)

By ROBERT J. SERLING

NEW YORK (UP) — You're safer when you drive on a good road.

There are those who doubt that statement, contending that superhighways invite faster driving and therefore are more dangerous.

But the facts support the claim that a well-designed road is safer even with higher speed limits and generally faster-moving traffic.

Giant toll roads like the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Turnpikes have had consistently lower accident rates than the nation as a whole. This superior record did not just happen. It is the result of these factors:

—The turnpikes are better patrolled, with more rigid enforcement of the higher limits.

—They are engineered for safer driving. Their traffic lanes are wider, divided, scientifically banked and graded, with no intersections and traffic lights.

—They are easier to drive on and therefore eliminate one of the leading causes of accidents—driver fatigue.

Speed Not Major Factor

When a turnpike accident does occur at high speeds, it can be a grisly affair. Yet turnpike officials say speed is not the major factor.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike, for example, has a maximum speed limit of 70 miles an hour. But a survey of accidents on the highway over the past few years showed that 75 per cent of the cars involved were going less than 51 mph.

California freeways last year reported 2.2 fatalities for every 100 million vehicle miles. The fatality rate for the state's rural highways was 9.39.

Other super - highways report similar statistics.

Fatigue as an accident-causer cannot be overrated. Recently, the American Automobile Association sent two cars over parallel routes —one on a new super-highway, the other on an older, narrow road passing through a number of towns and cities.

The driver of the second car drove nearly nine hours longer over approximately the same mileage, averaged about 15 miles an hour slower, applied his brakes more than 1,200 more times, stopped for 164 more traffic lights, made 454 more turns and 102 more stops for traffic. He naturally was more tired and a lot less alert by the end of his trip.

Last year, New York University safety experts put two identical twins into two identical new automobiles and told them to drive to identical destinations — from Portland, Me. to Youngstown, Ohio.

One twin used the Maine Turnpike, the Merritt Parkway, and the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Turnpikes. The second took parallel routes on older roads, involving heavy city traffic.

They were accompanied by psychologists who were to give them tests at the end of each day's drive. The one driving on the older roads collapsed from fatigue three hours before the first day's run was completed.

This was a dramatic demonstration of what the nation's new 41,000 mile interstate system will mean in terms of driver comfort and safety. One federal official has estimated that this new network will cut highway fatalities in half. And the Automobile Safety Foundation recently claimed that improvements even on older highways can reduce accidents by 40 per cent.

The foundation cited a study made of a narrow, 18-foot road stretching for some 200 miles. It had a whopping accident rate of 230 wrecks for every 100 million vehicle miles travelled.

The road was re-paved and widened to a minimum of 22 feet. The accident rate in the next year dropped 39 per cent.

Authorities also are studying ways to improve highway illumination for safer night driving.

Indiana, a few years ago, surveyed its accident rate and came up with a jolting discovery: 40 per cent of all accidents in rural areas occurred at night, although the traffic volume was only a third as much as in the day.

Better Lighting, Safer Driving

The state installed new or improved lighting at 60 major intersections, bridges and underpasses. The result was a 25 per cent reduction in nighttime accidents.

One problem that will arise from better roads, however, is that of re-educating drivers to the different requirements of a super-highway.

Virtually every turnpike built in the United States has had a higher accident rate during the first year or two of its operation, compared to succeeding years. The reason is obvious: As motorists get used to driving on high - speed roads, they get into less trouble.

A super-highway can be deceptively dangerous to anyone not used to fast driving. One troublemaker is "highway hypnosis"—being lulled into drowsiness by the very smoothness and ease of a super-highway.

That is why the new interstate system will deliberately place gentle curves, rolling hills and even carefully-planned scenery at strategic intervals to keep motorists alert. Such planning has made the New York State Thruway one of the pleasantest roads to travel as well as one of the fastest.

'Drunkometer' Is Endorsed for Testing Drivers

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader's new Traffic Safety Council today considered use of the "drunkometer" test on motorists as standard procedure for state law enforcement officers.

A demonstration of the device was given at the council meeting by Commissioner Fred McCartney and Capt. William Hershner, both of the Lancaster police force.

McCartney said that since the unit was introduced in Lancaster in 1954, the city had convictions returned on 147 of 148 drivers prosecuted for driving while intoxicated.

"The Drunkometer" measures the amount of alcohol by testing a sample of the subject's breath.

William C. Storb, Lancaster County district attorney, gave the "Drunkometer" his unqualified endorsement.

"In my opinion," he said, "it is a fair and accurate means of measuring the amount of alcohol in the body of the person arrested. It is impersonal and eliminates the possibility of bias."

A proposal to authorize its use throughout the state was introduced in the Legislature recently.

Submits Low Bid On Railroad Bridge

HARRISBURG (UP)—The B. B. Construction Co., Philipsburg, today submitted an unofficial low bid of $97,536 for construction of a bridge over Pennsylvania Railroad tracks southeast of Brookville, Jefferson County.

The state Highways Department said the bridge would be .020 of a mile long and 18 feet wide. It will be located on Legislative Route 33022.

The department said no date has been set for the start of construction.

HEART HOLE FIXED — Marilyn Kempf, 6, is shown on leaving Children's Memorial hospital, Chicago, after having a hole the size of a 50-cent piece repaired in her heart. The hole was between the auricles. The operation, Jan. 18, was by refrigeration. Her temperature was lowered from normal 98.6 degrees to 84, thus slowing her heart to 50 beats a minute. The beat was retarded for six minutes during surgery.

June Allyson, Dick Powell Are Separated

HOLLYWOOD (UP)— Actress June Allyson said today that she and her actor-producer husband Dick Powell have separated after 11 years of marriage because of "incompatability."

"We have not been getting along for the past few years even though we have tried," the actress said. "I have decided that Richard and I have a better chance for happiness if we are apart fro meach other."

The actress said there were no immediate plans for a divorce. She said that no other man or woman was involved in the separation.

The couple was married in Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 19, 1945. The Powells have two children, Pamela, 8, and Richard Jr., 6.

Money is sometimes called lucre from the Lotin lucrum meaning gain.

Snowden High, the Section 14 basketball champion, has lost only one game this season — an exhibition at Monongahela . . . Joe Kurey, junior member of the Monessen High basketball cast, is also a hot-shot in the classroom. He's an "A" student and a winner of the American Legion award for scholastic achievement in Junior High.

When the Monessen basketball bus broke down in Charleroi the other night, a hurried call was placed to Movie Club president Bob Mandarino for help. Quick as a flash, seven cars headed for the disabled bus. "That Movie Club certainly is a good outfit," observed one appreciative MHS official . . .. By the way, the Movie Club will promote a big triple-header basketball show at the MHS gym tomorrow. All proceeds will go toward the purchase of traditional Greyhound jackets for senior athletes. If you're a die-hard Monessen fan, you won't want to miss that show.

Bellmar Coach Speaks His Mind

Apparently Bellmar High basketball coach Jack Flora spoke his mind during a luncheon in Charleroi this week. "This is a rough section," Flora is quoted as observing. "I could almost say it's too tough for us. What's more the interest seems to be lagging among the fans. It's the old story: You have to win." . . . Flora also made it clear that he won't coach next season without an assistant to take care of the Jayvees. The past year, he handled the varsity squad in the afternoon, then returned after supper to work with the Jayvees . . . Junior High basketball followers still can't believe Washington's 29-28 conquest of Donora the other day. The win was the first for the Little Prexies this season, while the Dragon Juniors — who played their regulars all the way — suffered their first loss.

The big game in the WPIAL tonight will send Sharon to Farrell. If the Steelers whip Sharon, then the Section 3 race will wind up in a two-way tie . . . In all probability, there will be no WPIAL playoff games at the Monessen High gym this season. Authorities had hinted that the Geyhound floor would receive top consideration for playoffs in Class A sections. However no ties appear in the making . . . Despite the scoring prowess of the current Charleroi High basketball team, the biggest score ever run up by a CHS quint was recorded during the 1952-53 season. That year the Red and Black whacked Brownsville, 96-46.

Fayette Schools Form Diamond Loop

Seven Fayette County high schools have organized a baseball league of their own which will open on April 8 and close on May 23. In effect, the schools are quitting the WPIAL program. Included are Fairchance, Immaculate Conception, St. John's, All Saints, South Union, German and North Union . . . Incidentally Perryopolis High baseball coach Henry DiVirgilio will act as commissioner of the league . . . Reportedly, the Charleroi High basketballers would like to return to Johnstown next season to defend their holiday tournament title . . . The longest unbeaten streak in the Washington County Soccer League was established by Dunlevy between 1947 and 1949. The Red Birds went through 36 games without a loss. The current Gallatin booters have a 27 game string to their credit at the moment.

Fate May Square Things For Little Bob Shantz

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) —Fate may square things this season for little Bobby Shantz.

Through four heart - breaking years he has been one of baseball's most pitiful figures. Once the top player in the American League, a mysterious arm ailment made him a bust with a last place ball club.

But being "through" may have given him an otherwise forlorn hope of playing with a pennant winner.

The New York Yankees acquired him this week in their 13-player deal with the Kansas City Athletics. It figures to be some time beyond the playing lifetime of currently active performers before the A's win a pennant. You can't make the Yankees any less than a prohibitive favorite.

Could Help Yanks

And the figures indicate that Shantz could stick with the Yanks and, conceivably, play an important part in their pennant destiny.

The theory in baseball is that, while the sore left arm which won a league leading 24 games in 1952 never will regain its durable magic, he still can be an effective performer for three innings.

This makes the 5-foot, 7 - inch fielding marvel a pretty fair bet as a relief pitcher.

Somehow, whether rival clubs like it or not, the Yankee pin stripe seems to instill a new desire and a new tempo of performance even in the has-beens and the never-weres. Currently, Shantz may may fit the former classification—but not the latter.

He was a terror in 1952 when he won most valuable honors and suffered the break that altered his career. In late September he was struck on the wrist by a pitch off Walt Masterson of Washington and suffered a bad fracture. Wee Bobby never was the same.

Certainly it wasn't the Shantz of old as he developed the crippling sore arm in 1953, probably because of an unconsciously altered pitching motion. In 1954 he went on the disabled list in late June. And the last two years, as he tried to fight back, he had disheartening seasons of five wins against 10 losses and two wins against seven defeats.

Still, last April he tossed a five-hitter at Detroit and there's the added factor that Stengel always has admired him and thus he is certain of a solid chance to prove himself.

That heartening factor, plus the lure of playing with a pennant winner, may be just what the doctor ordered.

Monessen Plays Host to Monongahela

Movie Club Cage Show Sat.

Proceeds To Go for Sweaters

The "schoolboy" basketball season will have a postscript tomorrow.

That's when the Movie Club will stage a big triple-header show at the Monessen High gym.

Feature game will match the current Greyhound varsity against next year's team at 9 p. m. The pairing should excite Monessen followers who are interested in the future.

Since four regular members of the 1956-57 team are seniors, tomorrow's game should be a pretty stiff test for the undergrads.

There's much more to the Movie Club attraction. At 8 p. m., Viaduct and the Cro-Arns will begin the first game in their best-of-three series to decide the City League championship.

Real Enthusiasm

That game, figures to be particularly entertaining. The City Leaguers always manage to drum up enthusiasm, especially in title payoffs.

Tomorrow's tussle has all the elements of a real basketball drama. The Cro-Arns are unbeaten. They have their sights set on the first perfect record in the league's history.

On the other hand, the Viaduct cagers are defending champions. They came from behind in the playoffs last season to take top honors and they are determined to do the same this year.

Comedy Game

The third game, scheduled to begin at 7 p. m., will be a comedy attraction. The Movie Club, bolstered by Varsity Club members, will meet the Faculty.

Tickets for the show are priced at 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for students. All money will be used to finance purchase of traditional jackets for senior Greyhound athletes.

Officiating tomorrow's games will be John Dibiaso and Yip Dodaro at 7; George Kuvinka and Ed Cmar at 8; John Lipnicky and Joe Leone at 9.

Brisk Breeze Mars Golf Play

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Several of the favorites met tough competition and the hazards of a brisk ocean breeze today in the second round of the South Atlantic Women's golf championship.

Defending champion Ann Quast of Marysville, Wash., went against young Greta Leone of Chicago. Medalist Maureen Riley of New Castle, Pa., was expected to have an easier time handling challenger Ann White of Uniontown, Pa.

The first round of match play Thursday produced only one mild upset despite high winds off the ocean and a steady drizzle of rain. Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore veteran, turned back Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, 1-up on the 19th hole with a spectacular back-nine rally. She met Virginia Ott, Williamsport, Pa., today.

See Two Horse For Widener

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) —As many as five or six horses may start against Summer Tan and Bardstown in the $100,000 added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park Saturday, and even though the prospects are strong for an "off" track, it still figures to be a two-horse race.

Rain fell on Hialeah Thursday and the running surface is expected to be muddy by race time Saturday. Almost sure to start against the top two are Switch On, Dedicate, Black Metal and the Hasty House Farm's mud - loving Sea O'Erin. Listed as likely starters are Jet Action and Pilots Rose.

Turpin Bout Is Postponed

Rostraver Winds Up Against Derry Twp.

Rostraver High's basketballers will wind up their 1956-57 season tonight by playing host to the Section 10 champion, Derry Twp.

And the Leps have more than an outside chance of winning.

As a matter of fact, Rostraver has lost only one game at home this season. Early in the year, the Leps bowed to visiting Donora.

Derry previously conquered the Leps by a 74-51 score. However the count figures to be much closer on the Rostraver hardwood.

The Leps are two different teams at home and away. While they have won few games on the road, they are almost unbeatable at home.

Overall Record

Rostraver's overall record at the moment is 11-10. In league play, the Leps have won six games while losing five.

In other Section 10 battles tonight, Dunbar will go to Ramsay and Hurst to Ligonier.

The windup program in Section 5 will show Monongahela at Monessen, Charleroi at Donora and Brownsville at California.

The big game tonight will occur in Section 17 where a three-way tie may develop.

West Newton will play host to pace-setting Irwin. If the visitors win, they will have the title.

On the other hand a West Newton win — which looms as a strong possibility — will pull the Hornets even in the final standings.

Detroit Nears Hockey Crown

By UNITED PRESS

The Detroit Red Wings, one of the most successful teams in National Hockey League history, moved a step closer towards its eighth league title in the last nine years today.

The Wings, needing any combination of nine victories or Montreal defeats to sew up the title, played to a 3-3 tie with the Canadiens Thursday night to move eight points in front with only 14 games left to play.

Detroit's "production line" of Ted Lindsay, Gordie Howe and Alex Delvechio accounted for all three Red Wings goals, while Montreal's brother act of Maurice and Henri Richard scored the Canadaiens' three goals between them.

Ozarks to Put Club into Shape

The Monessen Ozarks A. C. will begin putting their new club room at 38 Donner Avenue into shape over the weekend.

Ozark president Tony Mascetta has asked all club members to report on Saturday and Sunday at 1:30 p. m. in "working togs."

"Of course, we'll welcome all other interested persons, too," said Mascetta.

Rostraver, Vernon Junior Highs to Meet on Monday

Rostraver and Vernon Junior Highs will settle their Section 3 deadlock on Monday at the Monessen High gym.

Both teams finished the regular season with 8-2 league charts. They each own a victory over the other on their home floor.

The Monessen High site was agreed on by both schools yesterday despite a $100 rental fee.

To ease the sting of the rental, Greyhound officials will take care of all other gym expenses. Thus the two schools will actually benefit "financially" by the Monessen agreement.

Rostraver will probably go into Monday's game as a slight favorite. The Little Leps muffed undisputed possession of the crown when they lost a one-point decision late in the season to Marion.

Respective Win

Vernon topped Rostraver, 35-33, but lost a return match, 36-25. Those scores would seem to indicate an edge for Coach George Estok's Little Leps.

However the Puppies have something working to their advantage, too. The school has been involved in so many title games in recent years, that the Puppies don't figure to freeze under championship pressure.

The Rostraver starters will probably be Chuck Ahlborn, Jack Pierce, Willie Ross, Chuck Zolak and Harry Fields, with Joe Pollins and Herman Blick in reserve.

Vernon, coached by Ken Clark, will probably open with Dick Caputo, Ron Feher, Lou Comadena, Howie Lippincott and Bill Beggs.

Knicks May Not Make NBA Cage Playoff Action

By UNITED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers, three games behind Syracuse in the vital lost column with ony 11 left to pay, now stand in grave danger of missing the National Basketball Assn. playoffs.

The Syracuse Nationals took this commanding lead over the Knicks in the battle for third place in the Eastern Division Thursday night by scoring a 92-86 victory over Phiadelphia after the Knicks had dropped a 120-114 decision to Fort Wayne.

In the only other game payed Thursday, the Boston Celtics increased their Eastern Division lead to seven full games by downing St. Louis, 125-112.

Paul Arizin of the Warriors took game scoring honors with 28 points, while Adolph Schayes ed the Nats with 16 points and John Kerr had 24 rebounds.

At Boston, Mel Hutchins of Fort Wayne and Harry Gallatin of New York each scored 24 points, but the Pistons led amost al the way in scoring a victory that boosted their Western Division lead over St. Louis to 2½ games.

With injured Bob Pettit of St. Louis scoring only three points, Jack Coleman led the Hawks with 33 points and Tom Heinsohn of Boston scored 32 in the second game of the Boston twin bill.

Greyhounds Wind Up Current Race At Home Tonight

Monessen High's 1956-57 basketball cast will draw the curtain tonight against invading Monongahela.

The Greyhounds already own a 55-33 decision over the Cats, so tonight's finale figures to be a happy one.

If comparative records mean anything, the game may wind up in a romp. Monessen has a 13-8 record for the year, while Monongahela owns a 4-15 chart.

However the Wildcat cause isn't quite that hopeless. As a matter of fact, the Monongahelans looked pretty good in their last outing, topping California, 72-69.

Impressive Wins

Oddly enough the Cats also own wins over Donora, Clairton and Snowden, all pretty good teams.

On the other hand, Coach Al Cree's boys have looked mighty bad at times. They lost to Uniontown, 91-25, and Charleroi 75-20, on a couple of their poorer nights.

In the first meeting with Monessen, the Cats fell far behind at the outset and were never really in the game.

The Monongahela starters tonight will probably be Milt Diaz, 6-0; Frank Columbus, 6-0; Dee Galiffa, 6-0; Ed Kikla, 5-11; and Rich Sacane, 5-11. The top reserves are Ron Saunders, 5-11, and Joe Hughes, 6-2.

Senior members of the Monongahela squad are Galiffa, Kikla, Sacane and Hughes.

Starting for Monessen will be Frank Crisi, 6-0; Joe Kurey, 6-0; Dick DiBiaso, 6-1; Maurice Mathieu, 5-9; and John Bogovich, 5-10.

Final Game

Crisi, Mathieu and Bogovich will be playing their final game in MHS colors. Another senior member of the cast — Carl Crawley — will probably look on as a spectator. Carl was injured in an auto accident last Saturday and hasn't seen action since.

In all probability, the game will wind up with both schools playing undergraduate squads. Thus the tussle promises to be a preview of the future.

BOWLING

By JOE JANNOTTA

As we reported in our last column, the American Rubberband Duckpin Bowling Congress is the governing body for the sport in our district.

This group acting through its executive committee, is empowered to make rule changes.

Actually the sport of bowling has changed very little as far as rules are concerned. Unlike our other major sports, the rules-makers have not baffled the public with continual changes.

One Change

This year, for example, there is only one change and it is relatively minor. The rule concerns a "leaning pin."

The ARDBC has now defined a "leaning pin" as one which is resting on dead wood. If the pin falls on removal of the deadwood, the pin is down.

So much for new rules.

Cats, Flyers in DIC Victories

Hellcats topped the Bombers and Flyers won two games from the Blue Devils in DIC Bowling last night.

Scoring leaders were H. Donald, 141-321; E. Isbell, 168-283; G Goff, 144-381; and S. Carson, 118-211.

St. Vincent Tops Frankies, 90-69

LATROBE, Pa. (UP)—St. Vincent College broke a five year jinx by defeating St. Francis of Loretto, 90-69, Thursday night.

Five St. Vincent players hit in the double figures, with Jack Kalbfus' 22 points high for the game. Jack O'Malley led the losers with 21.

St. Vincent now has a record of 12-8. St. Francis is 12-9.

Earlier this season the Frankies defeated the Bearcats, 77-72, to extend their string of consecutive victories over the Bearcats to nine over a period of five years.

Basilio Meets Saxton Tonight

Champ Rules at 3-1 Favorite Over Saxton in Cleveland Bout

By JACK CUDDY

CLEVELAND (UP) — Carmen Basilio, the hatchet-faced welterweight champion, hopes to chop down ex-champ Johnny Saxton tonight in their title "rubber match" at the Cleveland Arena so that he can try next for the middleweight crown.

The betting is 3-1 that raw-boned Carmen from Chittenango, N. Y., will achieve his second victory over streamlined Saxton of New York in their third encounter before a possible sell-out crowd of 12,700.

Carmen's recently tender right hand has not discouraged his supporters.

In fact, the wagering is 7-5 that 26-year-old Saxton does not last the scheduled 15 rounds of the nationally televised and broadcast battle, which starts at 10 p.m. EST.

Delay Helps Gate

A five week's postponement because the champion bruised his right hand in training helped the gate, expected now to range between $130,000 and $150,000.

That would be the largest in Cleveland since the Max Schmeling - Young Stribling heavyweight title fight, July 3, 1931. Since then the tops was $87,000 drawn by Sugar Ray Robinson and Artie Levine in 1946.

Co-Manager Joe Netro said today, "I hope Carmen finishes his series decisively tonight with Saxton, so he can shoot for the middleweight title. At 29, it has become a real chore for Carmen to pare down to the 147-pound limit. He would be stronger as a middleweight, around 154 pounds. Of course, whether he could go right after the 160-pound crown would depend on the wishes of the promoters."

Carmen Wins On TKO

In their two previous bouts, Saxton recaptured the title on a unanimous but disputed dicision over Basilio at Chicago Stadium last March 14, but Carmen won it back from Johnny on a ninth-round TKO at Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 12.

Saxton, who originally won the championship from Kid Gavilan and lost it to Tony DeMarco, has the chance tonight to become the first to win the welterweight crown three times. Nine others have won it twice.

"I'll win tonight," said Saxton, "because I'll return to the boxing style I used at Chicago — taking advantages of my speed and skill. I won't try to slug it out with him like I did at Syracuse, where the fans booed me for boxing."

Tale of Tape On Title Bout

Eighteen Horses At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (UP)—The usual feverish rush on the racing secretary's office to enter horses in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap was conspicuously absent today as battle lines for the big race were drawn a day early this year.

Borrowing a leaf from the Kentucky Derby, Santa Anita took entries for the mile and a quarter race which headlines its winter meeting a day earlier and 18 were named at a $500 fee for the golden gallop Thursday.

It was the largest field since 1947 and if starting fees of $1500 each are paid on the 18 thoroughbreds the gross purse of $145,200 will be the largest in the history of the race. The winner's share will be $108,100, second largest since Azucar won the inaugural handicap in 1935 and earned $108,400.

Pitt Receives NCAA Feeler

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The University of Pittsburgh received a "feeler" Thursday for a possible bid to the NCAA basketball tournament.

Pitt thus joined hometown rival Duquesne in receiving "feelers" from both the NCAA and the National Invitational Tournaments held in Madison Square Garden.

Capt. Thomas Hamilton, Pitt athletic director, said the school would accept a bid "from either tournament."

Pitt's record is 13-8 and Duquesne's 12-7.

Wallace Goes Against Top Quint Tonight

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

It's Grady Wallace, the nation's No. 1 scorer, against North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 team, tonight.

This dramatic basketball duel was set up Thursday night when Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain of Kansas failed to oust Wallace of South Carolina from the scoring lead — and also failed to keep Kansas from a 56-54 upset at the hands of the Oklahoma Aggies.

The seven-foot Chamberlain racked up 32 points in the clash at Stillwater, Okla., but the Aggies beat the nation's No. 2 team on a 20-foot shot by Mel Wright with only two seconds remaining. It was only the second loss for Kansas in 18 games.

Chamberlain improved his scoring average slightly up to 29.16 points per game, moving from fifth place to fourth but falling far short of the 36 points he needed to overtake Wallace.

So Wallace goes into tonight's fray with a 30.41 average, followed by Joe Gibbon of Mississippi at 29.38, Chet Forte of Columbia at 29.26, Chamberlain, and then Elgin Baylor of Seattle at 29.13. Gibbon is the only other contender playing tonight, going against Tulane.

In other leading games Thursday night: Seton Hall boosted its bid for a berth in the National Invitation Tournament by beating NIT-bound Cincinnati, 80-67, as Dick Gaines scored 27; Temple did the same thing by downing St. John's of New York, 80-73, as Mel Brodsky and Guy Rodgers each tallied 21; Joe Stevens' 31 points led Wichita to a 73-65 victory over Oklahoma City; Utah upset Brigham Young, 88-66, in the Skyline Conference; and Montana downed Utah State, 78-67.

Palmer Leads In Houston Open Golf Tournament

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) —Arnold Palmer started the second round of the $36,000 Houston Open today with a stroke lead over three veterans, an amateur and a hungry newcomer.

Palmer ripped the long, soggy Memorial Park course for eight birdies Thursday, but settled with a five-under par 67 after a bogey and a disastrous double-bogey.

One stroke back at 68 were Jimmy Demaret, a favorite son now playing out of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., amateur Phil Rodgers of Houston, Buddy Weaver, ex - Rice Institute golfer from Houston, Doug Ford, Mahopac, N. Y., and Peter Thomson, Melbourne, Australia.

Forty of the field of 161 tied or bettered the 7,200 yard par 36-36—72 layout in the opening round Thursday. A few mudholes spotted the damp course after two days of rain early in the week. Continued sunshine and temperatures in the upper 60s or lower 70s were expected today.

The closely - bunched field found 25 players within four strokes of Palmer, the 27-year-old former National Amateur champion playing out of Latrobe, Pa. Three were stacked at 69 and eight more at 70.

Palmer, 11th in money winnings on the winter tour after placing third in last week's Texas open, birdied Nos. 1, 2, 3, 8, 11, 12, 13, and 17. He double-bogied the ninth after dropping one shot into a ditch and another into the water. He bogied the 14th.

Over-par shooters included Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., winner of the Texas Open, at 73, and Cary Middlecoff, Dallas, Tex., a perennial favorite here, at 74.

Opposition Develops to Brooks Reported Move to Los Angeles

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers' time-honored slogan of "wait 'til next year" took on a decided Los Angeles flavor today but opposition already was mounting in California toward the Bums moving out there by 1958.

Although Dodger President Walter F. O'Malley denied the team plans to move from Brooklyn when he acquired the Los Angeles franchise in the Pacific Coast League from the Chicago Cubs Thursday, several PCL officials saw the handwriting on the wall—and they didn't like it.

Bob Cobb, president of the Hollywood Stars, said, "if a major league club does come to Los Angeles, it would destroy the Pacific Coast League from Vancouver to San Diego. It would put us out of business."

Oppose Move

Sacramento President Fred David added, "if O'Malley is buying the Los Angeles franchise to play an open classification team in Los Angeles, that's one thing. But if he plans to move the Brooklyn team to Los Angeles, we'll oppose it."

To obtain the Cubs' Los Angeles minor league farm, the Dodgers turned over their Fort Worth franchise in the Texas League to Chicago and since they are not permitted to operate two clubs in the PCL, they also ended their working agreement with Portland and the Cubs will pick it up.

Real Steal

Additionally, the Dodgers also paid the Cubs $1,250,000, a price some baseball men called "a steal" because "it puts the Brooklyn Club in an excellent negotiating position to transfer its franchise to Los Angeles next year."

One National League official considered the sum a paltry one in light of the fact that "the Dodgers can make more than that back in one year by becoming the only major league club to televise its games up and down the West Coast when they do move out there."

Aragon Faces Jail Sentence

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Art Aragon, the so-called "Golden Boy" of California boxing, today faced a possible sentence of up to five years in prison, a $5,000 fine, or both, on his conviction by a Superior Court jury of conspiring to offer another fighter $500 to throw a fight.

The jury of six men and six women returned the verdict against the boxer Thursday after deliberating the case for 48 hours. Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker ordered a hearing on a motion for a new trial for March 14 and set March 21 as date for sentencing.

During the trial, Polish refugee boxer Dick Goldstein, of Seattle, testified that Aragon, former third-ranking welterweight, paid him to "take a dive" in the fourth round of a bout scheduled in San Antonio, Tex., last Dec. 18. The bout was called off at the last minute when Aragon became ill.

Stobbs Turns Down Another Senator Contract

By JOE SARGIS

Southpaw Chuck Stobbs put in a real busy summer and winter for the Washington Senators, so now he wants them to "spring" for more dough.

The hard-working, 27-year-old Stobbs, who won 15 games for the seventh-place Senators last season and then served as a good-will man by making speeches and plugging ticket sales this winter, turned down another contract Thursday after a lengthy talk with club President Calvin Griffith.

At Vero Beach, Fla., site of the Dodgers' training camp, veteran Sal Maglie and rookie Bob Darnell were the only pitchers missing as Manager Walt Alston sent his batterymen through their first string drill. Other Dodger players are not due until March 1.

Hegan Begins Duties

Veteran Jim Hegan, who will serve as a combination catcher-coach with Cleveland this year, began his new duties at Tucson, Ariz., by schooling younger receivers Earl Averill, Hal Naragon and Russ Nixon.

Bob Scheffing, the Cubs' new manager, put his charges through an hour-and-a-half drill at Mesa, Ariz., and outfielder Ted Tappe turned out to be the first casualty. Tappe developed blisters on his heel.

Right-hander Bob Keegan signed his contract with the White Sox after accepting a cut. White Sox players who still haven't signed are pitchers Ellis Kinder and Jim McDonald, infielder Tom Brown and Dave Philley.

Mantilla Signs

Reserve infielder Felix Mantilla agreed to terms with the Braves, following a telephone conversation from his home in Puerto Rico with Milwaukee General Manager John Quinn.

Kansas City reported the signing of catcher Wilmer Shantz, second baseman Curt Roberts and pitcher Gene Host, acquired in a December deal with Detroit.

Tom Sturdivant, Ralph Terry and Jim Depalo signed their contracts with the Yankees, leaving only six members of the world champions who have yet to agree to terms.

WPIAL Committee Meets Tonight

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The WPIAL basketball committee meets here today to set up the league's annual tournament.

Henry Pharaoh, committee chairman, said the group planned to get the tournament underway as soon as possible after the end of the regular season tonight.

Fifteen sectional titles have been decided and one section race has ended in a tie. Titles still undecided prior to tonight's games were in Sections 3, 4, 9, 11, 17 and 18.

Edgewood became the champion in Section 16 Thursday night when East Pittsburgh, last season's Class B champions, lost to East McKeesport, 61-48, on the winners' floor.

Tarentum threw the Section 12 race in a deadlock by defeating Freeport, 62-43, at Tarentum. A playoff will be scheduled.

Talbert to Be Named Net Boss

NEW YORK (UP) —Billy Talbert of New York is expected to be re-nominated captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, today at a meeting of the Davis Cup Selection Committee.

WPIAL Okays Redstone Player

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Sam Canistra, thanks to a WPIAL committee ruling, will be in the lineup tonight when his Redstone Twp. High School basketball team meets German Twp. for the Section 11 title.

WPIAL president William A. Dolde of Connellsville announced Thursday that Canistra, six-foot senior forward, is eligible to play under the league's residence rule.

The ruling followed a sworn statement by Canistra's father that Sam was a resident of Henry Clay Twp., Fayette County, making him eligible to attend Redstone.

Redstone and German are tied for the section lead with 12-1 records.

Sooners Sign Canadian Contracts

EDMONTON (UP) —Tackle Edmon Grey of the University of Oklahoma and holdover tackle Roger Nelson, a former Sooner, have signed 1957 contracts with the Edmonton Eskimos of Canada's Western Football Conference. Grey was the seventh draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, while Nelson has played with Edmonton for two seasons.

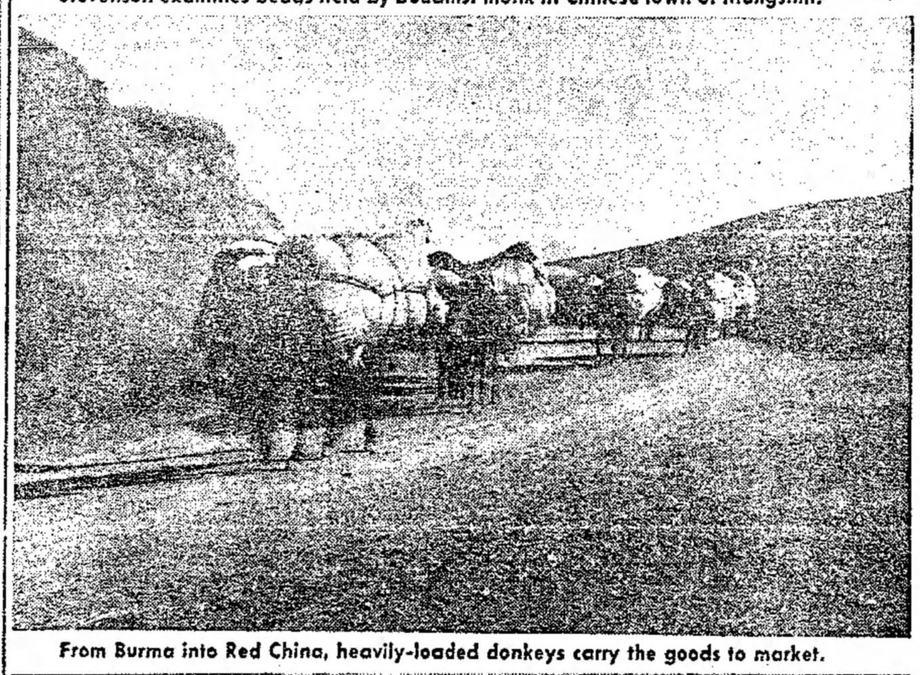
BORDERING ON DANGER

CANADIAN NEWSMAN William Stevenson, currently traveling through Communist China and the border towns of Burma, sent back these photos of life behind that Bamboo curtain. Stevenson says the natives of these border towns are being easily trained to become "missionaries" for Red Chinese program of annexation because people on either side of the border are of the same racial stock. Whenever a Burmese caravan comes in contact with Chinese muleteers, there are certain to be a few Red propaganda experts there to influence traders.

Stevenson examines beads held by Buddhist monk in Chinese town of Mangshih.



From Burma into Red China, heavily-loaded donkeys carry the goods to market.

PAGING THE IRISH—Mary Ellen Terry looks at her reflection in a mirror and what she sees is same thing that the judges saw when they picked her "Irish Linen Queen for 1957" in New York. Page girl, Susan McKenna, admires her.

Churches Face Challenge Today

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — A noted theologian said today modern man's "desperate search for meaningfulness" has given churches the greatest opportunity in three centuries to win sincere converts to Christianity.

But Dr. Albert T. Mollegen said the opportunity will be lost, and the present religious revival will degenerate into "dangerous idolatry" if churches try to satisfy deep spiritual hunger with "peace of mind" preaching or other "pagan" substitutes for classic Christian gospel.

Dr. Molleegen is professor of New Testament literature at the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary at Alexandria, Va. His books on Christian apologetics and his popular evening lecture courses for laymen at Washington Cathedral have won him a national reputation as an "apostle to intellecturals."

The United Press asked Dr. Mollegen in an interview to appraise the cause and the possible future course of the great upsurge of religious interest that has carried U. S. church membership to an all-time high.

End Of An Era

He said Western culture has reached "the end of the rationalist era," which began in the 17th Century, in which man sought to rule God out of the explanation of the universe. The implication, borne home by two world wars and the shadow of the H-bomb, he said, is that human life is essentially meaningless, and that man is an infinitely unimportant speck of matter "stuck on a cooling star with a queer type of cement called gravity."

Dr. Mollegen said men have found intolerable the "radical sense of rationalist philosophy and are seeking to build defenses against it in two ways:

—By filling their lives with "sensation." Elvis Presley, television addiction, the tremendous popularity of spectator sports, all are symptoms of this unconscious desire to cram existence with so much "feeling" that no one has time to think about "sitting on the edge of the abyss."

—By re-examining "almost every religious alternative known to the Western tradition." Some, like philosopher Bertrand Russell, have embraced Greek stoicism. Others have taken up Eastern mysticism. For most, however, this quest for "meaningfulness" has found its national expression in a return to Christianity.

Opportunity For Churches

Because so many people are genuinely searching for an intellectually-honest religious faith that can give purpose, meaning and hope to human existence, Dr. Mollegen said, churches have "their greatest opportunity" in modern times to expound the full gospel of classic Christianity to a receptive audience.

Are they doing it?

Some are and some aren't, Dr. Mollegen said.

"You can't escape the fact that there is a lot of froth to our present 'religious revival.' There is a tendency to treat religion as a formula for getting what we want.

"Some almost without qualification, promise people that God will give them what they want. Now I don't deny that this 'peace in mind' religion, which treats God as a means to our ends, may have some social value. It may help to cure alcoholics or overcome inferiority complexes. But you still have to say that this is paganism, not Christianity."

Some Confuse Religion

Another symptom of incipient "idolatry," he said, is "the disposition to confuse religion with patriotism, and to worship 'God and free enterprise' in the same breath."

"Mere religiosity," he said, "which is not rooted in Christian humility and a profound sense of living under God's judgment, can turn into a dangerous, even a demoniacal, thing. It leads to witch-hunts, to personal pride and national self-righteousness."

Ike Undergoes X-rays

WASHINGTON (UP)— Doctors have determined that President Eisenhower's persistent cough does not stem from a sinus or lung congestion.

The President's lungs and sinuses were X-rayed Thursday at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said afterwards that the X-rays turned out "what they called negative — both the sinuses and the lungs were clear."

Hagerty said both Dr. Howard Mc C. Snyder, the President's physician, and Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, hospital commandant, described the President's condition as "fine" except for "a cough."

Mr. Eisenhower has suffered from a persistent cough since Inauguration Day Jan. 20, when he stood outside for nearly four hours in cold, damp weather watching the inaugural parade.

He apologized for the cough to his national TV-radio audience Wednesday night at the opening of his speech on the Middle East crisis.

The President left the White House for the hospital late Thursday afternoon with Dr. Snyder.
